About Lucknow

The history of Lucknow can be traced back to the ancient times of the Suryavanshi Dynasty. It is said that Lakshmana, who was the brother of Lord Rama, laid the foundation of the ancient city. This was near the Gomti River on an elevated piece of land. It was then called Lakshmanpur. However, the city came into notice only during the 18th Century. Lucknow, flourished during the 17th and 18th century under the Nawab of Awadh, and soon became a thriving cultural and artistic centre. There are many aspects to the culture of Lucknow that make the city a unique and enchanting place. The polite mannerisms and language, the poems (shayaris), music, fine cuisine, regal buildings and the sprawling gardens of Lucknow are well known. Immerse yourself in the unique culture of Lucknow when you visit its centuries-old architectural landmarks, explore its tantalising food, and its colourful markets. Lucknow, is home to some interesting architectural masterpieces dating back to the 18th and 19th centuries. The magnificent Bara Imambara, is said to have tunnels leading to the cities of Agra and Faizabad. Chota Imambara is another must-visit. Husainabad Clock Tower built in 1881, is the tallest clock tower in India. The tower, along with the Rumi Darwaza and Satkhanda, form an important sightseeing circle. These iconic buildings are testimony to the rich history of art and culture of Lucknow. You can get a taste of the authentic food of the city in many high-end restaurants in Lucknow, including our in-house restaurant at Clarks Awadh, as well as in the bustling food streets of Avadh. You can find chikan apparel at the Chowk or Aminabad, in the crowded streets of Nakhas, or in the fancier Hazratganj area that is close to our hotel in Lucknow. At the Chouk, you can also buy some of the best attar. If you love jewellery and trinkets, head to Alambagh Market or Lal Bagh Market for a happy splurge.

Under the vibrant and visionary leadership of Shri Yogi Adityanath, Chief Minister of Uttar Pradesh, the illustrious cultural tapestry of Lucknow and its neighboring cities has experienced a markable revitalization, blossoming into a beacon of heritage and tradition.

The temperature in Lucknow during April are high, between 27°C to 34°C, drinking water regularly is advisable. You can expect a few rainy days in Lucknow during April, but usually the weather is comfortable in April.

There shall be a pre-conference symposium for young research scholars on 'How to write a good research paper?' Senior level academicians will highlight on writing research paper such as identifying problems or context, reviewing existing literature, identification of gaps and subsequent, objectives and hypothesis. Various methodological issues will be discussed on the objectives.

Conference Theme: Sustaining Growth with Equity: Sectoral Growth, Trade and Social Protection in the 21st Century

India is the fastest growing among major economies in recent years and has also undergone massive structural transformation since independence. The country's GDP was $3.7 trillion (nominal) by end of May 2023 and became the 5th largest economy in the world. India has shown positive signs in some macroeconomic fundamentals such as increase in net FDI, reduction of NPA of the banking sector, increase in gross revenue, and increase in Cap-ex budget to 2.7% where 13.5 crores population escaped from multidimensional poverty index recently. The contribution of country's service sector has reached to 54% of the GVA, whereas the contribution of manufacturing has been increasing to 28% and primary sector's contribution has been declining continuously up to 18% in 2022. The nation is bestowed with G-20 presidency to steer forward the agenda of sustainable development in terms of revival of economic growth, stronger climate action, speeding energy transition, promoting food and nutritional security, building a robust health architecture and digitally inclusive economy. However, Periodic Labour Force Survey (PLFS) Report reveals, the labour force participation rate has been declining continuously from 46.2% in 2016-17 to 39.5% in 2022-2023 (including Covid-19 pandemic years). The unemployment rate has been as high as 6-8% during 2016-17 to 2022-23. Moreover, other major indicators such as inequality, accessibility to education and health facilities, viability for cities and environmental degradation are getting worsened. Macroeconomic fundamentals such as persistent large fiscal deficit, decline of export from 22.8% in 2019-20 to 18.7% in 2020-21, decline of domestic savings and gross fixed capital formation are of significant concern.

It is, therefore, an opportune moment not only to reflect on India's long-term trajectory of growth and development, but also to address the immediate challenges posed by the pandemic, which also could have long-term consequences. These challenges are not the same for all sections of the society. Current evidence shows that inequality has increased as vulnerable section (including women workers) and the informal sector have been hugely affected during Covid pandemic and the recovery has been less than satisfactory.

The 19th Annual Conference of the UPUEA is being held at a time when India is recovering from the Covid pandemic and the economy is showing remarkable resilience and growth despite global slowdown. The economies of Uttar Pradesh and Uttarakhand are also poised with a major transition. This Annual Conference focuses on assessment of some of the major challenges and sectoral and national goals largely in the context of two important yet diverse states of Uttar Pradesh and Uttarakhand. An elaboration of the major themes of the conference is given below.

Themes of the Conference

Theme 1: Prospects of Manufacturing and Service Sector Growth in India

The development induced structural transformation reflects that the share of agriculture in GVA and employment will decline, and that of manufacturing will commensurately increase. Only at higher levels of development, the share of the tertiary sector is expected to increase, with the sector eventually becoming dominant both in terms of production and employment. India has bypassed this stage of transition with the share of manufacturing sector in national income remaining more or less constant, whereas construction and services absorbing the declining share of agriculture. The service sector is, by far, the dominant sector in the economy with nearly three-fifth share in national income and a quarter share in total employment (agriculture still continues to be the dominant share in terms of employment).

This presents a particular challenge to India's development paradigm. This is because modern manufacturing sector at earlier stages of development is considered to be more labour intensive than services. Moreover, the slow growth in manufacturing sector also implies that the country is a net importer of manufacture while being a net exporter of services. Indian policy regime has given a high weight to services export (for instance in the software sector), but it has also been extremely focused on accelerating the growth of manufacturing. In the past few years, while the government has opened up the services sector more and more to foreign companies, it has also encouraged manufacturing in India, both by Indian and foreign firms through schemes such as “Make in India” and Production Linked Incentives (PLI). Both Central and State governments have also made a concerted effort to attract foreign ventures in manufacturing as well as services.

Under this theme, the UPUEA invites papers which will address the following:

1. The trends in growth of manufacturing and services both at the national, state level and regional, more also to analyse at the level of specific industries and sectors.
2. Potential of the manufacturing and service sector in India to generate employment, income, and inclusive growth.
3. The growth of organized and unorganized segments of industry and services and, in particular, discuss recent trends in the informal sector.
4. The trends in foreign capital inflows in different sectors and regions.
5. The role of industrial policies at the national level (such as “Make in India”, Atmanirbhar Bharat and PLI), state and regional levels.
6. Role of digital transformation and innovation in enhancing the competitiveness and productivity of the manufacturing and service sector in India.
7. Challenges and opportunities for the manufacturing and service sector in India in the context of global trade and regional integration.

Theme 2: Role and Impact of Social Protection Programmes (SPP)

“Social Protection” includes public measures taken to prevent contingency-based or chronic deprivation. These measures aim at providing essential services and a minimum level of income to people over a life cycle, thus aiming at children, working-age adults, and the older segment. The Bachelet Committee report of 2009 outlines the several levels of impact of social protection which range from the well-being of individuals to macroeconomic stability and equitable growth. The International Labour Organisation's Recommendation 202 adopted in 2012 calls for the institution of a “Social Protection Floor” in all countries depending upon the specific circumstances of that country. It also outlines the general principles underlying such a Floor.

Social Protection programmes in India include both statutory and rights based programmes, such as Employees' Provident Fund Scheme, the Employees' State Insurance Scheme, the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Scheme formulated under MGNREGA legislated in 2005, and the National Food Security programme under the NFSA passed by the parliament in 2013, as well as non-statutory programmes such as the National Old Age Pension Scheme, the Ayushman Bharat Scheme, Income Support scheme for farmers, pension schemes for the unorganized workers, traders and other groups, and several other schemes launched by Central and State governments from time to time. The scope of these schemes has steadily expanded, particularly in the pandemic and post-pandemic period, raising a debate on the rationale, consequences and the fiscal viability of some of them.

Under this theme, submitted papers can explore the role and impact of any particular set of social protection programmes through case studies or empirical analysis at the sub-state, state or national level. The following specific issues that can be explored in these papers, among others are:

1. The extent of challenges in implementation and success of Social Protection Programmes (SPP) (such as MGNREGA, Ayushman Bharat, PDS) and its impact in alleviating poverty and creating sustainable livelihoods.
2. The macroeconomic and fiscal consequences of social protection programmes and its effectiveness in creating regional imbalances.
3. The impact of SPP to address gender inequalities and empowerment of women and girls in different contexts and stages of life.
4. The impact of SPP for enhancing resilience and adaptation to shocks and crises, such as conflict, and climate change.
5. The impact of SPP for promoting inclusive growth and decent work opportunities for the poor and marginalized communities.
6. The linkages of SPP with other sectors and services, such as health, education, nutrition, and child protection.
7. The role of digitalization and the banking sector in implementing various government schemes for financial inclusion (through the JAM trinity).

Theme 3: Emerging Features of Trade and Trade Policy

International trade, particularly net exports, is a major driver of economic growth. During 2002-08, India's exports witnessed a sharp increase with trade-GDP ratio touching 55 %. While trade continues to be important, this ratio was about 46 % in 2021. India's recent trade policy (2015-2020) has been extended in the Covid-19 period. A number of steps have been taken in line with India's policy to promote trade in line with the Make-in-India policy. The policy has called for a number of strategic interventions in relation to trade, tariffs and quantitative restrictions. India has also entered into a number of regional trade agreements including agreements with ASEAN, Japan and Korea, consistent with its look-East policy. It has also entered into free trade agreements with Australia and UAE and is further negotiating agreements with the UK, EU, and Canada. This is being done with the objective of augmenting trade with these countries/zones. Steps taken to promote trade have yielded results in a number of sectors, including pharma, electrical and engineering goods, chemicals, gems and jewelry. However, India balance of trade is negative in commodity trade while being positive in services.

The purpose of this theme is to encourage researchers to submit papers on the following main issues:

1. Global scenario in trade, its trends, composition and pattern (sector specific, or across sectors/commodities), the role of MSMEs in trade, regional trade agreements and their implications.
2. India's trade policy, balance of payments and exchange rate issues, implications of "Make-in-India" and PLI schemes for India's trade in recent years.
3. The possibilities of India's engagement with the emerging trade blocs and regional agreements, such as RCEP, CPTPP, and EU-India FTA, and balance its strategic and economic interests.
4. How India can address the trade-related aspects of climate change and digital transformation, such as border carbon adjustment mechanisms and data governance.
5. The role of e-commerce to enhance India's trade potential and what are the regulatory and infrastructural issues involved.
6. Any other issue related to trade and trade policy.

Theme 4: Growth and its Drivers in Uttar Pradesh and Uttarakhand

Uttar Pradesh is the most populous state and second largest state in terms the share of GDP of the country (9.2%) after Maharashtra (15.7%) surpassing recently to Tamil Nadu (9.1%). Soon after independence, the per capita income of Uttar Pradesh was close to the national average in 1951-52. However, by the middle of the last decade UP's per capita income was only about 40 % of the national average. The state has now drawn up an ambitious road map by which it is aiming to increase its per capita income to the level of the national average. The Uttar Pradesh government has prepared the roadmap to achieve the 1-trillion dollar economy goal by 2027.

The focus of the growth strategy involves giving a boost to the secondary sector revolving around manufacturing, developing tourism circuits, and making investments in business clusters. In the urban infrastructure sector, there is a plan to develop new townships, waste management systems, and waste compost facilities in major cities. Based on the existing infrastructure and economic environment, the government has identified nine economic clusters across the state. While four of these clusters are in western UP (Gautambuddha Nagar, Bulandshahr, Ghaziabad, Hapur, Meerut, Agra, Aligarh, Mathura, Moradabad and Bareilly), the remaining five are in Lucknow, Kanpur, Unnao, Hardoi, Gorakhpur, Kushinagar, Varanasi, Mirzapur, Jhansi, Chitrakoot and Prayagraj. Further, in order to boost growth and infrastructure, the state has focused on increasing capital expenditure. It is making concerted efforts to make Uttar Pradesh an attractive destination for domestic and foreign capital, and to boost the growth of the MSME sector.

Uttar Pradesh-Uttarakhand Economic Association

Uttarakhand (formerly known as the Uttaranchal) is located in the northwestern part of the country. The literal meaning of Uttarakhand is the transformation of northern terrain. It is also known as Dev Bhoomi because the entire region is the playground of religious and divine beings. Uttarakhand is located in the foothills of the Himalayan mountain range. The state shares borders with China (Tibet) in the north, Nepal in the east, and inter-state boundaries with Himachal Pradesh in the west and northwest and Uttar Pradesh in the south. Dehradun is the capital of Uttarakhand, it is the largest and winter city in the state. The state is home to more than 175 species of rare medicinal, aromatic & herbal plants. The state holds 11th rank among Indian states in terms of per capita income (nominal) and having nearly 80% literacy rate based on 2011 estimation.

Under this theme, the contributions could focus on the following set of issues on both states:

1. Historical and recent trajectories of growth and investment of both states, regional dimensions of growth vis-a- vis other states and the country.
2. Uttar Pradesh Surging towards $ 1 Trillion Economy.
3. Pattern of revenue mobilisation and fiscal expenditure; strategies for mobilisation of investment; role, pattern and trends of capital expenditure; creation of growth related infrastructure for both states.
4. Sectoral drivers of growth such as agriculture, services, industry and tourism etc in both states.
5. Development of education (primary, secondary and higher) sector in both states.

11. Prospects of achieving the target of a trillion dollar economy by 2027 in UP.
12. Other relevant issues relating to UP and Uttarakhand's growth.

Theme 5: Environment, Climate Change and Sustainable Development

Climate Change is the greatest problem on the earth as everyone get affected by it and it takes a long time to reverse its adverse impact. Moreover, the problems of climate change cannot be resolved by the actions of few countries. In this regard, India has made significant progress in many areas, such as playing a leading role by committing at international level for de-carbonization of its economy by transitioning from fossil fuels based economy towards green economy and promotes its industrial, domestic, commercial sector for becoming energy efficient to achieve environmental sustainability. However, India also faces many challenges
